In the centre of this System was once a huge planet, but now it is only a dense asteroid field. Explorers, who are familiar with the history of the X-3043 System in the Sirius Sector, will find very similar patterns of destruction here. Nomad involvement in history of this System is very likely, but there seems to be no one left, so who can tell us the details? However, a basic energy scan of this System revealed a weak static energy source somewhere in the central part of the System. It therefore may be worthwhile to explore this System more thoroughly.
