Chugoku, a home System for the Blood Dragons, one of the best organised and ruthless criminal organisation in Kusari and who are trying to retake control in the whole region. This System is considered to be the criminal hub in the local area, serving also as a safe haven for everyone who is hated by the Kusari government. The Kusari Navy has tried attacking this system countless times, but a dense asteroid field inside the local blue nebula, serves as a natural barrier, weakening all attacking efforts. Another important matter, which is playing against the government, is the production of the Manticore dreadnought located in a huge local asteroid station (Kyoto). This capital ship is part of Kusari might and, in the view of the Dragons, providing an effective divide between the various ruling parties.
