Regalis has a very dark atmosphere with many deep shadows and this, despite there being two local suns, still brings too little light into the System. One of the reasons for dark atmosphere is a dense asteroid nebula which covers most of the space in this System. A second reason, it seems, are the local inhabitants and the high priority they place on their independency from the Houses. To the point where they even support renegades and pirates which have now found an unofficial home here.

And there was also, in the past, something more. When searching archives at Jade Outpost, an old journal was found with information about a pirate clan called "The Resurrection Fighters" (TRF), who, in the past, have called Regalis their home. The journalist, who found the old journal, suddenly felt that the local, dark atmosphere had suddenly become even darker.
