Seltos is the scientific hub of the Liberty House which focuses on the use of alien technologies. A leading corporation here is the Ageira Technologies which has strong local support from the Liberty Navy. The cornerstone decision to create a scientific hub here was the discovery of the unfinished Nomad Structure near Planet Tojo. The Liberty Navy initially sealed this whole System against corporate access, but then decided to permanently allocate two dreadnoughts here to primarily guard the unfinished Nomad Structure; all this to secure it against the Nomads and "other" threats. So far there is no official explanation as to these "other" threats; however other Sirius Houses officially asked for access to examine Nomad technologies and in particular access to the Nomad Structure. The response from the authorities in Liberty however is still not known. Consequently, tension between Liberty and other Houses has risen. To make matters worse, Liberty has built a new facility here producing VHF's with knowledge gained from Nomad technologies.
