

Construction Machinery

The speed with which planets have been settled over the last several centuries would not have been possible without the development of automated Construction Machinery. For higher-level planning, the real-time analysis of building specifications is combined with terrain and weather data transmitted from orbiting satellites. Autonomous software aboard each individual Construction Machine then executes the plan in the most efficient way possible based on local conditions.